DRAWING LINKS BETWEEN FINE ART AND PARTICLE PHYSICS

Art department | 10.30am
No tickets required

The residency project with Ian Andrews culminates on 2 July with bookable workshops for adults, a viewing of the collaborative artwork and a talk by the artist outlining the research behind the project, previous exhibitions and a chance to view additional artworks created by the artist.

Ian Andrews is an artist and educator with a diverse practice involving painting, drawing, sculpture and film. As an educator he is committed to cross-disciplinary approaches and the development of a "creative curiosity" regardless of subject. Artistic themes include the primacy of drawing and the importance of "networks structures" whether neuronal networks that create thoughts in the brain, or the quantum "spin" networks of subatomic particles.

DNA BY DENNIS KELLY

Warwick School Drama Department | 12.00pm, 6.30pm
No tickets required

A very special sixth-form project directed by Fraser Venn.

DNA is a play about a group of teenagers, who could be described as a 'gang', who have accidentally killed one of their classmates. When they realise the terrible mistake they have made, they try to cover up this crime, but inadvertently implicate an innocent man in the process. At each moment when they could come clean, the group instead weaves a darker, more complex web of lies.

The themes and storyline of DNA make it unsuitable for younger children. 14+ advised. Please note there is no wheelchair access for this performance.

Led by a band of three actor musicians, we follow the story of Estella's astonishing self-discovery set against a backdrop of live original music and visual theatre making. In this radical reworking, will Pip and Estella be together forever? Will Estella ever know the identity of her birth mother? Can she finally leave her dark past behind and step into the light?
